ADmits BEET STOCK WATERED

OF SENATORS CONCERN THREE-FOURTHS FICTITIOUS, SAYS BEET INDUSTRY FATHER.

SELL SHARES FOR MILLION

Editors Spring Surprise—Gov. Roche Bristow Incident—Austin Answers Charge With Explanation.

Washington, June 16.—Henry L. Oxnard, known as the "father of the beet industry," and vice president of the American Beet Sugar company, was the principal witness today before the senate lobby investigating committee. Mr. Oxnard was on the stand for several hours and proved an entertaining witness. He told the committee how New York bankers who helped to organize the beet sugar company insisted on putting in about $15,000,000 "water" in that $20,000,000 corporation; how he and his brothers had made about a million by the sale of much of their share of the watered stock and gave warning that the Underwood bill with its free sugar provision would result, in his opinion, in the formation of a new sugar "trust" which would not violate the anti-trust law.

"Knows Something About Sugar."

The committee took Mr. Oxnard over much of the ground that other anti-free sugar witnesses have covered. He told them he received $10,000 a year in his official capacity, but that it was not "legislative work." The questioners learned that he had been fighting reductions in sugar duties for many years, and heard with interest that he knew something about "Sugar at a Glance." The celebrated pamphlet that was made a Senate document and sent over the country postage free under the frank of Senator Lodge.

Editors Spring Surprise.

The committee got a surprise today when A. T. Moore, owner of the Fargo (N. D.) Courier-News, and A. M. Baker, general manager of the paper, gave their testimony about an editorial recently printed in the News, which Senator Grover thought was a reflection upon him and which led to their being subpoenaed. Both men made the long trip to Washington in answer to the Senate summons, and then declared under oath that they knew nothing of the editorial until they saw it in print. It was written, they said, by James A. Metcalf of Glendale, Mont., temporarily employed while Mr. Baker was away from Fargo. Both Moore and Baker said they had no reason to doubt Senator Grover's political integrity and honesty, and Moore said that a retraction might be printed. Metcalf had written the editorial, they thought, merely in a flippant way.

"Dutch Standard."

Another witness was Aaron Gove of Denver, employed at $5000 a year by the Great Western Sugar company, who said he had given up the last eight years to a study of the economic side of sugar and to convincing congressmen of the soundness of his views for a duty on that article. Mr. Gove testified that before his employment by the sugar company he had been superintendent of schools of Denver. He had not talked with many senators, he said, but he remembered a dinner with Senator Bristow, at which he had tried to convince the senator of the necessity of the "Dutch standard" in sugar. Instead of convincing Mr. Bristow, he explained, he came away convinced that the Dutch standard was unnecessary.

Question Austin.

Harry A. Austin, employed by Truman G. Palmer, the Washington representative of the United States beet industry, was the last witness. The committee spent nearly two hours in an attempt to find out just what happened to "Sugar at a Glance" after the Senate ordered much of the material in it printed as a public document and its actual appearance in pamphlet form. They endeavored to find out what he knew about an alleged order from the Senate to have it printed as a public document, and its moral courage, which way did you decide?

WHILE SENATORS PROBE PEOPLE HOLD MEETINGS URGING MINERS TO STRIKE—OPERATORS BLAMED

Disorder Stories Come in From Hills—Guard's Qualification Straight Shooting Says Watch Dogs' Chief. Paint and Cabin Creek Smoulder With Revolt.

Charleston, W. Va., June 16.—With a renewal of the industrial war in the Paint and Cabin Creek mine districts generally reported, the Senate mine strike committee today continued its examination of witnesses. During the day, miners, detectives and agents of the mine operators came down from the strike region with tales of a new strike declared and the district again thrown into disorder.

Treasury Not Observed.

The local union of the United Mine Workers of America, No. 17, has not called a new strike on Paint and Cabin Creek. Thomas Haggerty, a member of the International Miners board, declared tonight, "but we cannot be sure of the men who are working up in the field. The operators have not lived up to the agreement under which the men went back to work, which was drawn by Governor Field. We have tried to prevent a strike, but I am convinced that the miners up there already have decided not to continue to work under the conditions which prevail there now. Meetings were held in the creeks yesterday and the men expressed dissatisfaction with conditions. They decided to strike and the union cannot control them."

Committee Urges Strike.

A committee of miners from the Cabin Creek section came to Charleston today to urge the United Mine Workers of the locals to agree strike. They bore the instructions of a mass meeting held in the hills yesterday.

Feltz Testifies.

The testimony presented to the Senate today was largely routine and cumulative. Thomas L. Feltz, vice-president of the Baldwin-Feltz company, which supplied the mine guards for the Paint and Cabin Creek operators during the strike, was the principal witness.

Mr. Feltz told the committee that when the trouble on Paint and Cabin Creek was at its height his concern had about 110 armed men on Cabin Creek and about 25 men on Paint Creek. He also said his company had from six to ten men working in the strike district as "secret service agents."

List Was Made.

"Old men make a list of those who were organizers for the United Mine Workers and those men who were active in the union, for the use of the operators?" asked Seymour Stedman, attorney for the miners.

The witness said such a list had been compiled.

"One of the objects of your organization?" asked Mr. Stedman, "when it is employed is to prevent the organization of branches of the United Mine Workers?"

"That is one of the objects," said Feltz.

Mr. Feltz denied emphatically that any of his men operated in the strike district after Governor Glasscock declared martial law. He also denied that any Baldwin-Feltz men were on the armored train which fired on the strikers' camp at Holly Grove in February.

Senator Kenyon Ascertained from Mr. Feltz that men were employed "to join the unions to find out what was going on," in order to carry out the purposes of preventing union organization.

Senator Martine was interested in the character of the men employed by Feltz as guards in the local fields and questioned him closely as to the instructions issued to men who were hired as guards. After a lengthy examination as to the qualifications to which the agency demanded when men applied for places, Senator Martine demanded:

"When it was a question whether a man possessed physical courage or moral courage, which way did you decide?"

Feltz was not quite sure and the senator asked rather impatiently:

"Where a man came to you for a place and it was a question as to whether he could shoot well or pray well, which did you choose?"

With a smile, the chief of the guards said:

Shooting Ability Qualified.

"Well, I think to shoot well would be the qualifications needed in a controversy such as there was in the creeks."

Feltz told the committee received something over $500 a day for the service rendered by his men in the field in the creeks when the trouble was at its height.

Used Company Gun.

Feltz declared his agency never owned a machine gun, but his men on Cabin Creek had used machine guns owned by the company. His guards operated one machine gun during the strike, he said, in the first battle at Maxie.

Under examination by Senator Martine, Feltz said he had endeavored in vain to find the origin of the story to the effect that a "human hyena had been shot in the head at the creek when the trouble was at its height.

Dallas Will Appeal From Decision as to 3 Cent Fares

Dallas, June 16.—City Attorney James J. Collins Monday morning stated that the city would appeal to Texas in regard to the decision of the court of civil appeals at Dallas which holds invalid the initiative ordinance demanding a 3-cent fare for standing passengers on street cars and the sale of street car tickets for a quarter of a dollar.

Chief Justice Austin J. Rainey of the court of civil appeals has handed down a decision upholding Judge Kenneth Force's decision which granted an injunction to the Dallas Complained Electric Street Railway company restraining the city of Dallas and its commissioners from enforcing the initiative ordinance as voted by the people April 2, 1912.

to the court below upon the proofs. The court below enjoined the rates as being confiscatory.

Partial Victory for Missouri.

The decision is a partial victory for Missouri as the lower court had held the rates confiscatory on all the roads.

In the cases in which the rates were held confiscatory, the supreme court today modified the lower court's decree so that the railroad commissioners and the attorney general of the state may apply to the court for further action whenever it shall appear that by reason of a change in circumstances the rates fixed by the state's acts are insufficient to yield reasonable compensation.

Two Cent Passenger Fares.

Validity of two cent passenger fares and maximum freight rates in Arkansas, Missouri and West Virginia were upheld by the United States supreme court today in another series of decisions in the noted state rate cases. No decision was announced in the Kentucky case. In the Missouri case the great majority of rates contested by the railroads as confiscatory were held as valid.

The state rates established in Oregon were also approved.

All claims that the state laws which were attacked interfered with interstate commerce, were swept aside, following the precedent set in the Minnesota rate decision a week ago.

In the majority of the Missouri cases and in the Arkansas case the court held the railroads had presented too general data on which to base a claim that their property was being taken without compensation through the operation of the new rates.

When the supreme court adjourned today until October, some twenty-five important cases were left undecided. Among them were the cases of Sam Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, the officers of the American Federation of Labor, who are asking a review of the decision of the District of Columbia court holding them in contempt for alleged violation of an injunction in the Bucks Stove and Range company case. Execution of the sentences thus will be delayed until fall.

Gompers, who was sentenced to a month in jail, has been very ill for several months.

Other Left Over Cases.

Other cases on the left over list include the intermountain rate case, the citrus fruit rate case affecting the Florida East Coast railroad; the Kentucky & Indiana State rate cases; the Nashville-Alton reshipping privilege case, the harbor sugar lighterage case and the California oil land suit by individuals against railroads.

Among the state laws whose constitutionality remains undecided are those of New York giving the right to city officials to tax national bank stocks regardless of debts of owners; the Georgia law regulating headlight on locomotives, the Kentucky law taxing those who turn back information to commercial rating houses, the Vermont law taxing savings deposits in national banks and the Massachusetts foreign tax law.

DECISION AFFECTS U. P.

Ruling of Supreme Court Construes Unfavorable to Railroads.

New York, June 16.—Opinion of the supreme court in the Missouri rate cases was construed unfavorable to the railroads by the street and caused some further falling of western railroad stocks. Union Pacific's loss reached 2½ and Steel, Reading, Can. Lehigh Valley and some other stocks less a point.

among the mine guards had mutilated a woman's breast."

"I offered a reward of $500 for any information on this story," said Feitz, "but was unable to find out where the story began."

Scores of witnesses called by the miners today testified that the principal trouble in the strike district was caused by the conduct of the guards. When the committee began its night session tonight it decided to take under advisement the question of demanding from Feitz the names of the "secret service operative" who worked among the miners in the strike zone. The miners' attorneys concluded the case with the calling of several minor witnesses.

May Leave Wednesday.

Sen. Swanson warned the attorneys that advice from Washington indicated that the committee would be forced to leave Charleston on Wednesday and urged that they endeavor to put their principal witnesses before them.

The operators' attorneys urged that the committee plan to return to Charleston for hearings later if the trip to Washington was necessary, but the committee reached no decision.

Paulson First Witness.

Paul J. Paulson, the first witness called for the operators said he was an officer of the United Mine Workers. He could not say whether several persons, including "Mother" Jones, were employed by the United Mine Workers.

J. C. Cowherd told the committee he believed if the mine guards had not aroused the miners they would have been willing to treat peacefully with the operators.

Lee Calvin, the ex-mine guard who described the trip of the armored train to Holly Grove, recalled for cross-examination by counsel for the operators, denied he said to Quinn Morton, the mine operator, after the train passed Holly Grove, " Didn't we give them hell?"

Dr. C. A. Ray, the doctor for the Consolidated Coal company, said the inauguration of the guard on Cabin Creek in 1904 resulted in an improvement of conditions as to law and order on the creek.

Given $1000 Bond.

Charleston, W. Va., June 16.—John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, voluntarily appeared in federal court here today and gave bonds of $1000 for his appearance on November 19 on an indictment charging violation of the Sherman act.

between interstate and intrastate passenger and freight traffic, according to gross revenue was disapproved for "reasons stated in the Minnesota state cases."

Apportionment of Expenses.
Coming to an apportionment of expenses, Justice Hughes said the plan adopted by the lower court of applying the revenue basis was open to the same objection as in the Minnesota cases, however, as to the St. Louis, Hannibal and Kansas City, Clinton and Springfield, he said, "experts of both the state and railroads uniting in stating no basis could be found upon which the proposed rates would yield an adequate return. As to the Chicago Great Western, he said, the errors of valuation and apportionment were not sufficient to warrant a reversal of the findings of the lower court that the rates were confiscatory. The rates as to the Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City and the St. Joseph and Grand Island, were annulled because of a stipulation between the state and railroads that the findings as to the Chicago Great Western should control them.

Brazoria County Physician Gives Interesting Data About Vitalitas Mound.

One of Brazoria county's most reputable widely known physicians who has spent his life in the vicinity of the now famous Vitalitas mound, comments as follows:

"I have studied and handled the raw material from that mound for many years. I have always said it would wake up the world sometime. It is a mystery why people were so long in taking hold of it. I have been reading a great many reports, in the papers about Vitalitas and what it is accomplishing. The shape you have the fluid in now is perfect, not in the new form, but the mineral itself. Of course it is more convenient and far better as you now have it. The way we used to prepare it was this: Take a bucket full of the mineral and pour it in a tub or some other big vessel and cover it with water. Stir it up and then let it set for several hours. The water off it was then ready to drink. I am convinced there is no medicine in the world more effective as a tonic and system cleanser. I know of nothing more beneficial for stomach troubles of all kinds and for rheumatism. It is fine for liver and kidney troubles. I have seen some astonishing cures from its use. I have never known of it failing to be of some benefit."

There are a number of physicians throughout Texas who are now prescribing Vitalitas. Its merits are becoming widely recognized as the most efficient curative and corrective for all derangements of stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. Visit the unique Vitalitas display and talk with the Vitalitas man at the Powers-Kelly drug store today.

IN OIL SUIT HEARING

TAKING OF TESTIMONY IN THE TRUST CASE TO BE TODAY.

Monday's Session Was Only Formal and for Organization—Some Witnesses Are Absent.

Dallas, June 16.—Hearings in the Texas $99,000,000 oil penalty suits began here today. Dallas is the head of the marketing department of the Magnolia Petroleum company of Corsicana, the Texas oil refining concern involved. State attorneys said they would investigate prices and selling contracts while in Dallas. The state contends that the Standard Oil companies of New York and New Jersey, or some of their stockholders, who also are stockholders in the Magnolia, influenced the prices charged by the Texas concern and controlled its selling department for the benefit of Standard oil interests.

No testimony was taken at this morning's session, which adjourned after a formal organization until Tuesday to enable the state attorneys to investigate books and correspondence of the marketing department.

Several Witnesses Absent.

In calling the list of prospective witnesses for the Dallas hearing it developed that the state had included W. M. Bayhan, who, States Attorney Richard Maury said, is an employee of the Texas company. He did not say why Bayhan was called but remarked that Bayhan could not be expected to appear at this hearing.

George Harrington, who left the employ of the Magnolia about a year ago, also was named as a witness. Mr. Maury said he believed that Mr. Harrington now resides in Wichita Falls, and that his testimony would have to be taken through an independent commissioner. Maury did not say whether this would be done.

All other witnesses called responded to their names except W. P. Gage and D. L. Cobb, named as stockholders of the Magnolia, who the defense said are in Fort Worth today. The defense promised that Messrs. Gage and Cobb would be present Tuesday when testimony begins.

Loyal Men as Witnesses.

The other witnesses, all local men, are A. C. Ebie, the Magnolia's sales manager; E. D. Smith, chief clerk; E. M. Hackett, division manager, and Chief Clerk Converse.

Mr. Ebie told the state attorneys, Mr. Maury and Clyde Sweeton, assistant attorney general, that his books and records were ready for their immediate inspection. The hearing then upon adjourned.

The hearing is being held before Charles R. Roby of Greenville, special commissioner named to conduct these hearings. This morning's session was held in the Southland hotel parlor, but the formal hearing will be held in an upper room at the hotel.

A full seven-day hearing was had in this matter last week and week before at Corsicana.

APPROVES ALASKA RAILROADS

"Country of North" Steam Line Measures Found O. K. by Wilson.

Washington, June 16.—President Wilson today gave his approval to a plan for immediate legislation authorizing the construction of government railroads in Alaska. In conference with Senator Pitman, chairman of the senate territory committee, the president in general terms approved a bill that had been agreed upon by the committee earlier in the day and expressed his willingness that the measure should be urged upon the immediate attention of congress, if any measures outside of tariff and currency reform are to be considered.

The revised Alaska bill as it will be introduced in the senate tomorrow by Senator Chamberlain, leaves the entire control of constructive work to the president. The committee today eliminated the provision for a special commission to construct the roads, and also the provision which would have authorized the government to develop and control the coal fields in the territory. A bond issue of $40,000,000 would be authorized for the railroad development.

Given $1000 Bond.

TAX PAYERS IN REPLY TO MEZES

ISSUE AN ADDRESS IN REGARD TO PROPOSED BOND AMENDMENT.

Austin, June 16.—The following statement has been issued from the headquarters of the Texas Tax Payers Organization, opposing the bond amendment:

"Dr. S. E. Mezes has found time from his duties as president of the State University to advise the voters of Texas how to vote on the bond amendment. Interesting as his statement may be he has built up men of straw for the sole purpose of knocking them down. That is to say, no one has ever claimed that the proposed amendment within itself provides for the consolidation of any of the schools of the state with the university, but Dr. Mezes will not deny that under the proposed bond amendment and with the proceeds of the bonds that it is the plan of the master mind behind the bond scheme to establish an A. and M. college, a medical department, a state normal and college of arts and industry at Austin in connection with the university.

"Our contention is that there is absolutely no necessity for duplicating the schools that we now have and that to do so would in the end result in the destruction of the A. and M. college and the impairment of all the other high schools or unnecessarily increase the expenditures of the state government and thereby the burdens of the taxpayers. Besides, in the hands of a few men the power to issue bonds from one dollar to a hundred millions is far too much power. The people have no voice on the bonds themselves.

"Mr. Mezes overlooks the fact that the people are called upon to surrender to the legislature their right to make debts against the state. Since 1845 with the exception of about six years the state constitution has limited the legislature in the matter of creating debts. During those six years nearly $4,000,000 worth of bonds were issued which are unpaid and upon which the people have paid more than $7,000,000 in interest.

"The question for the tax payer to decide is, Shall I vote to take from the people the power and right to control all bond issues and turn it over to the legislature, with the authority to issue from one dollar's worth of bonds to a hundred million dollars, that myself and my children will have to pay?"

"And in deciding that question, let no one be deceived. The tax payer cannot escape payment of the bonds regardless of what the bond advocates may say. The creation of the proposed A. and M., the State Normal and other schools in connection with the university will increase the apportionment perhaps a quarter of a million dollars each year. The bonds for other institutions, which may include anything from a penitentiary to a hundred thousand dollar governor's mansion must be paid by the tax payer."

Puncture Cop's Hat and Pink Man's Leg During Strike Riot

San Francisco, June 16.—In a riot in the downtown district late today resulting from a collision between strikers and employees of the Pacific Gas and Electric company, Wm. Eriger was shot in the leg. Miles M. Sykes was severely beaten and Policeman Charles Russell's helmet was shot from his head by Sykes.

Sykes is employed as a guard by the gas company. He became involved in a dispute with strikers and a general fight followed. Just as Policeman Russell rushed up Sykes opened fire on the strikers and their sympathizers.

Loyal Men as Witnesses.

The other witnesses, all local men, are A. C. Ebie, the Magnolia's sales manager; E. D. Smith, chief clerk; E. M. Hackett, division manager, and Chief Clerk Converse.

Mr. Ebie told the state attorneys, Mr. Maury and Clyde Sweeton, assistant attorney general, that his books and records were ready for their immediate inspection. The hearing then upon adjourned.

The hearing is being held before Charles R. Roby of Greenville, special commissioner named to conduct these hearings. This morning's session was held in the Southland hotel parlor, but the formal hearing will be held in an upper room at the hotel.

A full seven-day hearing was had in this matter last week and week before at Corsicana.

BOHEMIAN SOCIETY SOKOL

To Have Grand Ball at Macomber's Hall Tonight.

The first grand ball of the Bohemian Gymnastic Society, "Sokol," will be given this evening at the Macomber hall. The Sokol has just been organized with a membership of fifty. It is composed of the leading Bohemians of the city, and the purpose of the society is to further athletics, sports, and to promote the well-developed body.

The society is a branch of the national and international Sokol, which are maintained in almost every city of consequence in the United States as well as in other countries.

The entertainment tonight is the first the local society has given, and will mark the opening of the club's social life.

McKnight Tells of Katy's Earnings and Expenditures.

Austin, June 14.—A. H. McKnight, assistant general attorney of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, was in the capital today to appear before the state tax board in behalf of the Katy and explain the earnings and expenditures of that road during the past year. Recently Assistant Attorney General Letha Nichols was requested to assist the tax board in investigating the expenditures of the road during the past year, which were thought to be unusually heavy. Mr. McKnight stated that the Katy was willing to pay taxes on the same amount as last year.

MR. AND MRS. HOLDERMAN ARE TO GO WEST

It is heard from Mr. and Mrs. H. Holderman, who are now in their home in Fremont, that they have the house in readiness for the early July arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Sherwood of Temple, also of Mr. and Mrs. June Holderman, who go over from Indianapolis. This completes the family. Later as guests of the parents the entire party tour the Yellowstone region and other interesting points in the West.

A GATESVILLE WEDDING IS OF LOCAL INTEREST

The coming week notes the marriage in Gatesville of Miss Mildred Walker, who is connected both by the family and the friendship tie with this city. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. H. M. Culbertson of South Fifth street, and the niece of the Mandanes W. W. Lastinger and Irene Richardson, also of Miss Emma Culbertson, who will attend the wedding. The groom is Elmer Duren, more closely identified with Belton, but known in Waco. Little Miss Louise Lastinger will be ring bearer. The event is of social note in Gatesville.

SUGGEST NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY DESK

It is for each and every patron of our city who allowed our national flag to go unhoisted. Not even did our postoffice and our recruiting naval office put out even the most insignificant emblem of our country. One, and only one, Texas flag was displayed. The city hall had one on the mast. One of the department stores had one. So far as observed, this was the sum total. There is one exception; the department store which offered tiny lapel souvenirs and thus sent many men on the street wearing Old Glory. This firm made a flag front and elicited many words of praise for their patriotism.

What about the citizens? Very little. The writer drove from Third to Fourteenth on Austin, and returned on Washington, just to see what patriotism was evident among the women. Just one home, and this one of the Daughters of the American Revolution, had the flag. At the park conditions were some better, but not what they should have been. Several automobiles and more vehicles showed the flag; two or three were very creditably touched. Some children, perhaps a score in all, carried the flag, which showed a few patriotic mothers. Some of the Henry Dumas chapter, but not all, carried each her flag.

Mr. Neff sounded the keynote of his eloquent and truly patriotic address when he said: "The principles of our flag should be carried in our hearts." That is the keynote. If we do not revere the principles for which the flag stands, we can not enter into the spirit of the one day set aside by our nation, for honor to our tri-color.

It is too late now. The National Flag day is gone. But another is coming. All through the North home-age is paid the American flag. And

MRS. BEAUFORD MCKINNEY IN MOUNTAIN RESORT

Mrs. Beauford McKinney has left Pittsburgh for one of the Pennsylvania mountain resorts. She writes her mother, Mrs. F. B. Pace, of pleasing surroundings, as well as of cool for her summer retreat. Little Miss Kyle McKinney is indulging more of her interesting and unexpected cleverness. She, it seems, has won the fancy of Macklyn Arbuckle. She had romped and played with him, but understood nothing of his being an actor. Mr. and Mrs. McKinney took her to hear The Round Up, but said nothing of Mr. Arbuckle's connection. It all went well until the famous one-hand cigarette rolling. Here little Kyle made her own discovery, and, to the abashment of the parents, cried across the footlights, "Hello, Mr. Arbuckle." With that the actor threw a kiss to the little lady with his disengaged hand. So much for the insouciance of youth.

A FEW REMARKS MADE UPON SIGHTS AT OAKWOOD

Nature has given us one of the most beautiful cemeteries in all Texas. The name Oakwood betrays wherein the beauty lies. Peaceful, away from the turmoil of town, birds in their natural haunts singing among the trees, beautiful wild flowers in their natural growth, stately oaks and many of them, truly our home of the dead is a spot of beauty.

The majority of those whose loved ones have been laid there are sadly derelict. Lots are so high in weeds that one can not see the inscriptions on the monuments. And is it not a travesty that a costly piece of marble should be so screened? If we love our dead, better far the simple grass fresh and showing the loving care, than the costly shaft buried by signs of neglect. Such is the condition on many lots in Oakwood, and with families who still reside here. It takes but a morning now and then to keep our lots fresh and attractive. Why not? Other lots have sunken graves, some are littered with bits of broken glass, some have fruit jars full of stagnant water. This is Oakwood today.

And yet the cases in the wilderness are there. Beautiful lawns, freshly blooming flowers, cemetery vases clean and white, cut flowers almost always seen, a restful seat, litter thrown into the nearest trash basket; this is what some lots show. Why not all? We owe it to our own self-respect if not to those whom we loved and are gone before, to have our lot at Oakwood neat, at least. Once in time which is evidently owned by the owner person. Yet a horse has been buried and the grass has been watered and clipped, and the humble flower blossomed, and the hundreds of passers-by know that some one has passed away, one whose memory is loved by those who reside. Oakwood is visited by thousands. For a long time it was our only park spot. We naturally look at when our meditative mood comes. We attend the funerals of our friends from time to time. The condition betokens the sentiment of the community. If our loved ones have been masters of indifference, let our own self-respect lead us to keep them neat home decently. If we care not personally, let us have sufficient regard for the few who do work faithfully with their lot. It is disgraceful to have our own sightly and the few adding a disgrace to the civic pride of our city.

The women who form the Oakwood cemetery society labor faithfully. They are at times disheartened owing to the indifference of others who have the common. However, to all the Utopia in existence, we have attained. Some families have moved from the city, even be located. Those

Great Crowds of Enthusiastic Shoppers Yesterday

A Word of Appreciation

EVERY one of the thousands who attended our June Mark Down Sale yesterday or watched the enthusiastic and happy crowds have stamped this Great Event "A Most remarkable Sale"—The greatest of its kind ever held in Central Texas.

Even in our large new building with its broad aisles, large, swift elevators and great forces of extra employees our facilities were taxed to the utmost. If you failed to receive yesterday that perfect service which we have tried to obtain, we ask that you forbear with us, as it was beyond human ability to cope with such crowds of eager shoppers who have thronged our store up to the time this article goes to press.

However, today we expect even greater crowds and we have prepared for them. We hope to give every customer prompt service.

The sales today will be the greatest in the history of our business and only because The G. M. Co have the complete confidence of a Loyal Public who have made this Great Business possible.

We wish to thank our customers and the public in general for their support and patronage yesterday. We assure you of our best efforts at all times to please you.

This sad condition we must stress: When we can't have our will—Although it's childish, we confess—The earth seems to stand still.

"The Yale Baseball Association," grins the Boston Globe, "has risen to the occasion by providing a special double-size baseball chair for Prof. Taft in the grandstand directly back of the home plate, with everything securely bolted to the floor and a reinforced wire screen put in front of the seat to turn aside foul tips. Now the professor will be able to determine accurately whether the pitcher puts them over." But we venture that both his bulk and his past dignities will restrain Dr. Taft whenever the umpire says the pitcher didn't and Dr. Taft knows the pitcher did.

If Senator Martin, of the committee investigating the coal miners' strike violence in West Virginia, cannot contain himself at the testimony he had better return to Washington and direct his excitement to the tariff fight. He must remember he is a member of an official board of inquiry, however much he may be disposed to furnish the material for fat, black headlines.

Beaumont is planning a new water line and will run tramp steamers to all the island ports as well as North Atlantic ports," lauds the Fort Worth Record. "Beaumont is getting to be some town, thanks to the Morning Enterprise and the builders who follow where it blazes trails." But aren't all trails blazed by enterprise?

The Massachusetts legislature purposed applying the civil service plan to the school teachers. Some of the school teachers we have known would not have benefited by such a plan but the schools they taught in would.

It gives us sincere pleasure to be able to agree with Mr. Peter Radford that cheap money is much needed. We need it much more than Mr. Peter Radford needs it, and even rather more than the farmer needs it.

Mr. William Marion Reedy, of St. Louis, will find plenty of Texans who will disagree with his latest classic, "The Tragedy of B. F. Yoakum"—and the disagreement will begin with the title.

We confess our sympathies are all with Mrs. Heye. Think of the wife of one of New York's classiest spenders being forced by the court to exist on $15,000 alimonyannuity. It is too much!

An humane nation will hear with deep gratitude that Mr. "Bridge" Webber, the Rosenthal murder case witness who was stabbed Saturday in the back and New York, is "well on the road to recovery."

If the lobby lancing continues much longer some congressman's record may not be fit to print in the Congressional Record—and that's no false alarm.

We wonder if there will be any brawl concerning the possible appointment of Mr. Brailley to the A. and M. College headship.

GROWTH OF EXPORTS.

Recent compilation of statistics by the federal bureau of commerce illustrates the success of the great manufacturing industries in extending their sales abroad. This is especially true of the export record of iron, copper, wood, cotton, leather and mineral oils in late years. These six great industries have been able to send their products to every part of the world, accompanied where necessary by representatives of their producers and distributors, and as a result these show phenomenal gains in their foreign sales. Exports of iron and steel manufactures, including automobiles and agricultural implements with the group designated "iron and steel manufactures," have grown from 35 million dollars in the fiscal year 1893 to approximately 375 million in 1913, or more than ten times as much as two decades ago. Copper manufacturers show even a greater gain, from 5 million dollars in 1893 to approximately 140 million in 1913. Manufactures of wood, including in this term lumber as well as the completely finished types of manufacture, show a growth from 24 million in 1893 to about 110 million in 1913. Cotton manufacturers increased in exports from 12 millions twenty years ago to about 53 millions in the fiscal year now closing, making it probable this year's record will pass the figure of the former high record year, 1906. Leather and manufacturers thereof show a gain from 12 million dollars in 1893 to approximately 65 million in the current year; refined mineral oils, from 37 million dollars in 1893 to about 130 million this year.

Taking these six groups of manufacturers, their aggregate exportation shows a growth in the 20-year period from 125 million dollars in 1893 to 330 million in 1908 and about 875 million in 1913. This indicates a gain of 600 per cent. in the exports of these six groups in twenty years, against a gain of 126 per cent. in the exports of all other domestic products during the same period.

America retains the international cup in polo by 4% to 4%. The result is easier to understand than the counting toward the score, but we are gratified nevertheless.

THE SALVATION OF THE FARMER.

We took issue with the views of Mr. Peter Radford, president of the State farmers' union, on two or three occasions when it seemed to us he was not giving the principle and benefits of expert instruction and demonstration, and what these had accomplished for the farmers of Texas, their due. We could not follow his reasoning that the inculcation of scientific principles was not a prime essential in the general co-operation with the farmer in the solving of his problems. We do now as cordially agree with Mr. Radford in the argument and the spirit of the argument he has made last in his series given the State through the press; his analysis of the difficulties confronting the farmers in a business way is, in the main, strong, striking and informed. We know Mr. Radford does not intend to be an alarmist, but much of what he has to tell contains a distinct alarm.

The president of the great union tells that the remedy for the serious conditions under which the Texas farmer, to a serious number, has not the price of a home, is "cheap money" and obtaining better prices for his products. The initial half of that proposed remedy seems both easier of understanding and easier of achieving than the marketing betterment. Mr. Radford has suggested, though the need of the latter obviously is before us. Low prices, and a deplorable overproduction in the face of low prices even for the demand, are the chiefest detriments. It is also true that in too many cases the farmer must pay unreasonably heavily for the money he needs to tide him over; many are literally rendered homeless by the swallowing of their earnings in the loan interest they must pay periodically. Mr. Radford tells us Texas farmers must pay the highest rate of interest on the average farm loan charged in the Union: 9.97 per cent. Reasoned any way, the anomaly and, we think, to a large extent the injustice of this in the richest agricultural region must crop out glaringly. He well asks why, if Texas farmers security are as good as the average, does not the Texas farmer get the security as is good as the average, farm loan in the United States bears 7.75 per cent. per annum; in the North Atlantic tier of States it is 5.98." In the face of Texas's world-record crops, in the face of all statistics that Texas is the richest agricultural region of the world, the president of our farmers' union has the proof that the difference between the amount of interest paid on farm loans that inspection alone was ineffective, one inspector of large experience having stated that if every dairy farm were guarded by an inspector he would not guarantee safe milk. When Nathan Straus made a similar statement many years ago and pointed out that in officially guarded pasteurization alone lay security against milk-borne diseases, it was opposed by eminent authority. An intelligent layman penetrated a scientific problem and saw clearly its solution. His philanthropic insight directed him to demonstrate the truth by actual practice rather than to waste precious death-laden moments in discussion. As a result New York, Chicago and Washington insist upon certified milk or proper pasteurization. And the National Commission on Milk Standards has decreed that all milk must be subjected to a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit for thirty minutes. There is no record of a disease being traced to milk that had been exposed to this temperature. There are numerous records of epidemics being checked or removed by subjecting the milk supply to proper pasteurization.

None expects Texas cities, for many years, to take such good care of their people that they will insist on such requirements. But it is not too much to expect them to insist on careful inspection, at the very least; not the sort of inspection that now obtains in some municipalities—where an inspector or two takes samples daily from the delivery wagons and turns them over to the city chemist whose report is forthcoming after the harm may be done—but reasonably expert and wholly honest inspection of the sources of the milk supply.

We hope the State food and drug department will give much of its attention this summer to the conditions of inspection of the cities' milk supply. In some places there is no inspection, in some it is a farce and in few is it by any means what it should be.

"It's a good anti-trust law that works both ways," comments the Washington Post. It neglects, however, to advise where so unique a statute may be found.

Emily Wilding Davison has been laid to rest 'mid flowers and tears and prophecies. Now let us revive a little sympathy for Jockey Jones.

THE LIMIT OF DANGER.

In New York are large dairies whose products come from cows stabled nearby. But for a city of more than four millions of people there is also as great a portion of the milk supply that comes from country dealers whose herds and houses are in the neighboring country, out among the fields and trees and in the pure air. Strict inspection of milk from every source is the rule there, but the city, as do some other big cities, goes much further than the ordinary form of inspection, however careful. It is the misfortune of some cities in Texas that their governments have not progressed to that degree of intelligence that realizes the utter need of honest, unceasing inspection of the milk supply as a measure of public health protection. Every sort of authority worthy the name is in duty bound to see to it that milk inspection regulations adequate to the conditions of their local supply are ordained now, at the beginning of the heated term, and rigidly enforced through the summer, particularly, and at all other seasons. If such regulations do not obtain, or politics is mixed with their enforcement, the State authorities should take the matter out of the cities' hands as unfit to be trusted with the safeguarding of their people's health.

The New York Sun goes to the length of urging the people to drink no raw milk. "Many cases of typhoid and scarlet fever, diphtheria, certain forms of tonsilitis and tuberculosis," it reminds, "may be prevented" by heeding this warning. It finds that in view of the fact that innumerable essays, discussions in medical and lay societies, monographs and other literature on the purification of milk have appeared during the last twenty years, "it becomes matter for surprise if not concern to be informed by so reliable an authority as the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal that epidemics of milk-borne diseases are on the increase. It is stated that 800 cases of scarlet fever and 1,000 cases of tonsilitis were reported in Boston three years ago, and that typhoid fever has visited that city and its environs five times in as many months, and two epidemics of dangerous sore throat in two years.

"It is a matter of record," comments the Sun, "that all these epidemics were traced to raw or imperfectly pasteurized milk, and that the diseases ceased or diminished when the board of health discovered this fact and safeguarded the milk supply by itself alone." No foolishness will we find for at this time.—Austin Statesman.

Our Expose Felt By Usurper. Mr. Peter Radford really insists that the scribes of Texas consider him the rightful successor of the paragraphers union (no apostrophe, primo) that went to the wall when Onion Expert Crowell went to San Antonio, he must do something, write something, to strengthen his claim of ability to carry on the rather unusual—though often iniquitous—performance of that close organization. And we must do nothing, write nothing, that will do violence to the traditions and prejudices and preferences of the cantankerous Crowell. Let there be no more "editors," then, and no more "practicability" of girls. The strength of this rare union was in its humorous ill-humored and its bold work was done in the shattering of editorial customs and conventions.—Waco News.

Remain on your own health, please. Do business at home and quit troubling us. Here we have a splendid winning organization. We have made all arrangements to leave the city for while and rest. And our associates in the paragraphers' union is going to undertake the burdens. We are bound to do. Do you want to make of her a new content? Sharply, very sharply, we remark: "If it don't concern me, it alone." No foolishness will we find for at this time.—Austin Statesman.

If the lobby lancing continues much longer some congressman's record may not be fit to print in the Congressional Record—and that's no false alarm.

We wonder if there will be any brawl concerning the possible appointment of Mr. Brailley to the A. and M. College headship.

The young head and imposing front of the Austin Statesman called yesterday from New Orleans for New York. The little wife of this big youth accompanied him, as was meet, just and befitting salvation—his salvation. He wrote us he would be gone a fortnight and even suggested our journey with him, knowing we could not. For six years, by and large—large, chiefly—Mr. Lloyd Pomeroy Lechridge has newspapered in Texas; he has politiced with pleasant men and pin—well, others, in every city and village, has suffered through legislatures and endured through investigations and survived excitement in the high courts. All the while Austin has been his headquarters and his home. As correspondent there for other Texas dailies and as editor of its own morning "disseminator of intelligence"—if Mr. Chief Justice White knows what he's talking about—young Lechridge has been compelled to speak kindly, hopefully and exaggeratedly of his habitat. Since he became editor, this strain must have been terrible, for there's truth in the young man yet. It appears the controversy he projected lately with a Methodist domine in his hamlet was the last straw; Lechridge feels the utter need of turning his face toward modernity and civilization and is too proud to vacation near home, economizing and learning something of city building in Waco or the other Texas communities he has scoffed at. Even New York will be a relief after many years of Austin, however; but our hope that his sojourn will be pleasant is not unmixed with fear that he may never return. The four million still take their toll of country boys and victims from the wilds still are reported from the bright lights. Many years of Austin influences are not to be shaken off in a fortnight. We think it was hardly wise for the young man to choose big-city-seeing as his summer recreation. If he shall return he will find it harder than ever to simulate contentment and well-nigh impossible to affect pride—in Austin.

"It's a good anti-trust law that works both ways," comments the Washington Post. It neglects, however, to advise where so unique a statute may be found.

Another Sort of "Revival." Hon. Champ Clark doubtless has learned to put not his trust in attempts to revive defunct periodicals. —Waco Morning News.

The "late" President Taft visited Speaker Clark in his office the other day and said, "Hello, Champ!" And this is the reward the Waco contemporary places on magnanimity.—Texas Republican (San Antonio).

Waco Misplaced. The alarming extent of the divorce bill is brought home forcibly to our mind by a little court news item from the fair city of Waco in the columns of the Morning News of that city. The item which gives such awful figures, says: "Dan Cupid, the vigorous love god, received an awful blow during the term on the Fifty-fourth district court which has just adjourned for Judge R. I. Monroe granted a total of 197 divorces during that time, playing havoc with the work which Cupid had completed only a short while before." This record for three months is a very heavy one for a county the size of McLennan, and almost puts Waco in a class with Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and other centers of population in the state.—McKinney Courier-Gazette.

Fort Worth Needs 'Em Most. As we understand it, Fort Worth leads all other cities in Texas in National Guard representation. There is inspiration in that for patriotic as well as local public pride—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

There is also cause for gratitude in locally, and by the state as a whole, if there is any populous place in Texas that needs military protection 50 per cent as much as it needs the restraint that makes for peace in Fort Worth. The statement is safe: Fort Worth's own newspapers lately have felt obliged to read the riot act.—Waco News.

Waco might ponder over the fact that it is the policy of the National Guard in calling out troops to put them in service away from home. Dallas and Waco are both within easy reach of the Fort Worth battalions.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Texas Viewpoints

Discontent To Pay.

The young head and imposing front of the Austin Statesman called yesterday from New Orleans for New York. The little wife of this big youth accompanied him, as was meet, just and befitting salvation—his salvation. He wrote us he would be gone a fortnight and even suggested our journey with him, knowing we could not. For six years, by and large—large, chiefly—Mr. Lloyd Pomeroy Lechridge has newspapered in Texas; he has politiced with pleasant men and pin—well, others, in every city and village, has suffered through legislatures and endured through investigations and survived excitement in the high courts. All the while Austin has been his headquarters and his home. As correspondent there for other Texas dailies and as editor of its own morning "disseminator of intelligence"—if Mr. Chief Justice White knows what he's talking about—young Lechridge has been compelled to speak kindly, hopefully and exaggeratedly of his habitat. Since he became editor, this strain must have been terrible, for there's truth in the young man yet. It appears the controversy he projected lately with a Methodist domine in his hamlet was the last straw; Lechridge feels the utter need of turning his face toward modernity and civilization and is too proud to vacation near home, economizing and learning something of city building in Waco or the other Texas communities he has scoffed at. Even New York will be a relief after many years of Austin, however; but our hope that his sojourn will be pleasant is not unmixed with fear that he may never return. The four million still take their toll of country boys and victims from the wilds still are reported from the bright lights. Many years of Austin influences are not to be shaken off in a fortnight. We think it was hardly wise for the young man to choose big-city-seeing as his summer recreation. If he shall return he will find it harder than ever to simulate contentment and well-nigh impossible to affect pride—in Austin.

Undoubtedly No. 18 could have been written in such phrasing as could have been used by any voter who wished to understand what he was voting on when casting his ballot. It doesn't take a very brilliant individual to write intelligently. On the other hand, it does require a decidedly "smart" one to wrap his idea in language that no two persons agree as to the real meaning; and when any idea is so wrapped, it is generally a pretty safe plan to turn it down.

Because, if the idea were a good one, the author wouldn't hesitate to make it plain enough for ordinary understanding. There is a very general idea prevalent in the state that No. 18 is a town-lot-booming scheme for Austin; that if adopted by the people, the effect will be to cause the state to abandon the A. and M. college at College Station, and center all the state's educational institutions at the state capital. Texas spent something like $10,000,000 in the construction of the A. and M. college at College Station. The bigness of the scheme, therefore, should be at less cost. The bigness of the scheme, therefore, should not weigh against it.

It seems to be conceded that federal aid of some sort eventually is to be given to the states in the construction of good roads. Perhaps there is still doubt in the minds of many whether the nation should aid the states. But there is just as much reason for aiding the construction of interstate roads as there is for aiding in the deepening of rivers. Both improvements are of benefit to the nation as a whole, and probably the same result could not be achieved in any other way.

Three billion dollars is a great deal of money. The mind hardly grasps its significance. It is three times as much as the total amount appropriated by any single congress. In this particular case it means, however, a definite plan—a well-ordered system, looking to the future welfare and prosperity of the country, and not to the usual political advantage to be obtained from the poor areas.

If the government is to establish a policy of federal aid in the construction of public roads, it is well that there should be a definite program looking twenty years ahead. This is what the Bourne plan provides. The joint committee of congress which investigated the subject from top to bottom found many schemes, but Chairman Bourne's has the advantage of making each state stand on its own feet, merely borrowing the money on an easy payment plan from the government.

With a better system of public roads—such a system, for instance, as the one in France—an amount equal to the total investment could be saved in one year in preventing the great waste in truck farming, due to the inability of the farmer to get to the shipping point when bad roads become impassable; in preventing wear and tear on horses, mules and vehicles, and in the substitution of oil and electric traction for horse power. The invention proposed by Senator Bourne is a big one, but it is well worthy of careful investigation. Like the Aldrich plan for currency reform, it is likely to form the basis for all future discussion of the subject.

MILNER'S RESIGNATION.

Hon. R. T. Milner has tendered his resignation as president of the A. and M. college, and will return to his farm at Henderson. Mr. Milner has been in public life for many years, and each time that he has held a public office he has won credit to his position, and it is with regret that we learn of his retiring from the head of the A. and M. college. Col. Milner started on the farm, and now he goes back to the farm.—Jacksville Progress.

The resignation of Col. Robert T. Milner as president of the A. and M. college at College Station is a matter of deep regret. It came as a shock to the state in general. It was not generally known that this splendid citizen had such a step in mind. Col. Milner for five years has directed the affairs of the A. and M. college in a very creditable manner. He became head of the institution when conditions were very unfavorable five years ago. He has ably directed the farmers' school. Under his watchful eye the

LOOK YEARS YOUNGER! GRAY HAIR DARKENED BEAUTIFULLY WITH SAGE

Says Sage and Sulphur Will Stop Falling Hair and Cure Dandruff.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggy and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's."

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, after another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur," and it surely helps folks appear years younger.

FIND ABANDONED AUTOMOBILE

Dallas Police Are on the Hunt For the Bandits—Reported Saturday.

Dallas, June 16.—Imbedded in the mud alongside of the Dallas-Fort Worth road, not far from Grand Prairie, a numberless automobile was found Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Dan Hartson and City Marshal King of Grand Prairie. The officers were scouting the country in search of auto bandits following the report of holdups in the vicinity of Fort Worth Saturday night. It is believed this automobile was left in the roadway by some one connected with the holdups. In the car was found a quantity of eatables, and other stuff stolen Saturday night from the store of Mr. Mourning of Grand Prairie. Four automobile numbers were also in the car. These numbers were marked Bowie, San Antonio, Waco and Fort Worth.

Investigation is Started.
The finding of the automobile started sweeping investigation. Efforts were at once made by the officers to find the owner of the machine and it developed the car was stolen several days ago from the home of Charles O'Connor of Coppell. Late during the afternoon the car was identified as being the one used in the holdups at Fort Worth on Saturday night.

Immediately after the find Sunday Deputy Sheriff Harston notified Sheriff Brandenburg who in turn notified Chief of Police John W. Ryan. All officers in Fort Worth and other nearby places were notified and searches are being made for suspicious characters in connection with the case.

Many Officers Notified.
Officers throughout the state have also been notified by Sheriff Brandenburg for it is believed the men occupying the car when it was abandoned have caused depredations in different parts of the state. Officers have a fair description of the men seen in the car and these have been given to all important points in the state.

The fact that the men were seen only on cross roads and in out of the way highways is indication, the officers say, that they are guilty of some law violation. The further fact that they were provided with eatables is another point against them.

Sheriff Brandenburg and his deputies have been working on the case since the holdups were reported from Fort Worth Saturday night, and the investigation will continue until arrests are made or all clues are exhausted.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of McLennan County—Greeting:

Barton O. McCoy, guardian of the estate of Addie McCoy, a minor, has filed in the County Court of McLennan County, Texas, his application for leave to resign the said guardianship and has accompanied the same by an account for final settlement thereof.

You are hereby commanded, that by publication of this writ once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper regularly published in the County of McLennan you give due notice to all persons interested in the said guardianship to appear before said Court at the July term thereof, 1913, commencing on the 7th day of July, 1913, and contest the account of the Guardian, if they see proper to do so.

Witness my hand and seal of office, at Waco, Texas, this 30th day of May, 1913.

What One User Says About the Burroughs Duplex

One user of a Duplex Bookkeeping Machine says:

"The fact that you are able to do double column work, carrying the totals of each different column in the machine until the work is finished and then have the grand total of all figures added, in our minds is the greatest feature of this machine."

It is wonderful—and what this Duplex accomplishes, what it cuts off the cost of handling figures because of its two-in-one operations, is making it the most popular machine in the big Burroughs Line.

You ought to at least try a Duplex on your own work—no cost or obligation.

B. F. Yoakum, Railroad Builder, and Banker Speyer of New York

(By Herbert Corey, New York Correspondent of the Times-Herald.)

New York, June 16.—When the Frisco system went into the hands of a receiver the other day the situation began to revolve about two men. One is Benjamin Franklin Yoakum, the big Texan who built up the Frisco from a pair of rusty rails and a right of way through No Man's Land. The other is James Speyer, one of the great private bankers of the country. Yoakum represents the stockholders and Speyer the owners of bonds. It follows that their interests are directly opposed.

"Yoakum," said one of the heads of the department, "is the liveliest railroad man that ever yanked a bellicose. We don't work for Yoakum. We work with him."

"Speyer," said a banker, "has served a peculiarly independent position among New York financiers. French bankers have reposed great confidence in him. They feel that he is a conservative force in American finance, and that he is especially dependable in his opposition to those methods which flowered in interlocking directorates."

Litigation, which may last for years, seems assured over the appointment of receivers. And the interstate commerce commission has been asked to take down its ropes and hang some one. And a panel of French bankers is reported to be on its way here. The gentlemen want to find out whether any one slipped them the wrong card. And various other commissions will confer and call names over the question of finance, morality, and ethics arising from the Frisco matter. So that it might be well to spare time enough now to look over the two big men of the situation. Yoakum is one of the always optimistic, chance-taking men without whom not many railroads would have been built twenty years ago. Speyer—always arrayed on the constructive side of finance—is still of a different school. He not only wants a fair return, but he looks to the absolute security of his dollars.

Yoakum, Road Builder.
Then years ago "Ben" Yoakum had been barely heard of. It's true that he was the president of the Frisco railroad, a miserable, half-starved, skin-milk road that tottered out of St. Louis in a general direction of the southwest. No one in railroad circles considered the Frisco more than they would consider a silk worm. But Yoakum went to building up the road—and building men with it.

"Yoakum knew by the first name every man holding an official position on the Frisco," said one who knew him well. "He knew by his last name every employee of the road in those days. He was on handshaking, baby-kissing, crop-talking terms with every shipper along the right of way. Business came to the Frisco. It couldn't help it. As fast as Ben Yoakum got a dollar that the Frisco could be towed out of for awhile, he started an immigrant family down into his territory. A few years of that made his annual statement look a little less like a pile in confession and avoidance."

He actually lived on the road then. He ran a train sometimes, just to keep his hand in. He camped with his construction gangs, and worked with his engineers, and hired teams of farmers. When the Frisco got so it could walk without holding on to the cradle he not only knew every mile of it, but he had established a bond of fellowship with his men that perhaps has never been paralleled in railroad circles. He was one of them. He had no strikes, no fusses, no rate wars, no troubles of any sort. If anything happened that didn't seem just right to the other fellow, before he became to feel aggrieved, "talked it over with Ben."

Then Yoakum got—and gave—a lesson in the banking end of railroading. Dan G. Reid, and the two Moores, and Laddie were tying scattered roads into the Rock Island system.

"Wherever they went they found Yoakum ahead of them," said one commentator.

Want to School to Hill.
The Rock Island crowd secured control of their system by eliminating voting securities and putting out bonds and non-voting securities in their place. By this means they dominated a system on which almost $850,000,000 of stocks and bonds had been issued, by controlling a single issue of $26,000,000 in stock. But as fast as they thrust themselves in to the southwest they took Yoakum in the rear. He kept them from pushing south from Kansas City, because he held the only road; and he barred them from New Orleans, until they finally bought the Frisco system on his own terms. Later they separated and Yoakum built up the Frisco system as it stood until the receivers were named the other day. In his hands it was a standing defiance to the laws of financial gravity. Its 7500 miles of line and $300,000,000 in bonds were controlled by $20,000,000 in stock. Yoakum held control of that stock—and it is claimed he still hopes to hold control.

Yoakum's father was a doctor down in Texas, and wanted to train his big youngster to be a dominie. But Benjamin Franklin wasn't built along those lines. He took to railroading because he couldn't keep away from it. He had to go to the Great Northern school of railroaders, conducted by Jim Hill, to take his first lesson. He bossed one of Hill's surveying parties all one summer. The rest of his story is simply a recital of going up from one job to another. His work as a developer of the southwest has been called as important as that of Hill in the northwest. Like Hill, he continually opened new territory, and filled that territory with settlers.

"Ten years from now," said an Eastern railroad president, "we'll know Ben Yoakum as one of the great men of his time. But he began ten years too soon."

Speyer is Conservative.

Speyer is Yoakum's opposite. Yoakum in all good faith will "take a chance." Speyer never would—with other people's money. He will put his own money in to help a tottering enterprise, if the enterprise seems to deserve it and the money promises to be safe. Where Yoakum is big and bulky and somewhat overpowering, Speyer is slender and quiet and almost retiring. In anger Yoakum might be loud. Speyer would be cold and low-voiced.

He is a New Yorker. Born here in 1861, he was educated in Germany, served in the Speyer benches in Europe, and was finally ordered to New York in 1885 to take charge of the American branch. The Speyer house antedates the first Napoleon. In all his history it has been a bank of constructive finance. It has furthered great enterprises. From time to time it has Houston, June 16.—Ware lost an eleven-inning decision to Austin today, after holding the visitors hitless until the ninth. He pitched a remarkable game and it was an error and in-field raps that finally cost him the game. Taylor was hit hard in the early rounds, but settled down and pitched splendid ball. Errors figured in both of the Austin runs.

WANTED, LEGIBLE SIGNATURES.

Hotels and Business Men Want to Read the Name.

"Kindly favor us with a legible signature," is an appeal now often encountered. It appears on the letterheads of many a legal firm and is conspicuously printed on contracts and other important documents. In hotels this request is sometimes used as a heading on each page of the register or printed on a card. It hangs in plain view of the counter.

A room clerk in one of the big hotels in New York, says the Sunday Sun, declares that the task of deciphering signatures has reached a crisis.

"It has got to the point where we couldn't bluff on names any longer," he said. "In these days of constant telephoning and telegraphing we've simply got to be sure that every guest's name is correctly entered on our books or there's bound to be trouble."

"Of course a successful hotel clerk must have a gift for deciphering bad signatures just as he must have a good memory for names and faces, but when a man we've never seen before comes in and scrawls a long wavy line on the register without a single letter plain enough to even guess at how we're going to call him by name at the next minute? He may have important mail waiting for him or he may be telephoned for any minute, so our request for a legible signature arises out of a necessity."

"It's usually men of prominence who dislike being asked for a plain signature. One man who comes here often evidently gives a good deal of trouble to new correspondents because of his bad signature. It's an uncommon thing for letters to come here intended for him, but on each envelope instead of a typewritten address is pasted the man's own signature, evidently cut from his letter. Below is the hotel address as usual. He always treats these letters as a huge joke and seems to pride himself on writing his name so that no one could guess what it was."

A member of a law firm on whose letterheads is printed "A legible signature is requested," says that these few words have saved his firm much trouble. Papers no longer have to be returned for resigning, as was formerly the case, because the first signature could not be read. Before this request for a legible signature was made important legal documents often had to be entirely rewritten because one of the parties refused to accept the signatures of some of the others on account of the illegibility.

A large employer of labor has made it a rule recently to have all applications for work brought to him. He orders each letter folded so that the signature alone shall show. He goes over these, picks out the signatures that appeal to him and gives these applicants precedence over the others.

"If a man doesn't know enough to sign his name so I can read it, I don't want him to work for me," he says.

EMPIRE IS IN FIELD

ARRANGING WITH KATY FOR EXPRESS EQUIPMENT—BEGINS OPERATIONS THIS WEEK.

Agents and Messengers Appointed and Routes Are Named—Two Weeks Messengers.

Within the next eight days the Empire Express company, the latest common carrier to bid for traffic business in Texas, will commence operation. Arrangements for equipment are now being made with the Katy railroad by the general superintendent at the Dallas home office.

The new company's activity will be confined to the Texas Katy, it will operate on every branch of the road with the exception of the Texas Central.

According to W. G. Nash, local agent for the Empire, a corps of forty messengers has already been selected. Ten more men will complete the messenger force. A number of station agents have already been appointed and new ones are being announced daily for these positions.

Messengers who will run out of Waco are: E. J. Schneider, now at San Antonio, and A. H. Collins, who has been connected with the Wells Fargo here for a number of years.

Routes that will be covered by the Empire have been named as follows:

Waco and San Antonio; Denison, Greenville and San Antonio; Houston and San Antonio; Dallas and San Antonio; Denison and Wichita Falls; Dallas and Wichita Falls; Dallas and Whitesboro; Houston and Granger; Wichita Falls and Whitesboro; Sherman and Bonham; Greenville and McKinney; Greenville and Waskom; Denison, Fort Worth and Hillsboro; Dallas and Hillsboro; Dallas and Denison.

For some time the Katy, the American express and the Empire have been engaged in a three-sided wrangle. The Empire desired to do business on the Katy system in conjunction with the Americans; the Katy was not anxious to have a new company on its line; nor did the American appear anxious for the new company to operate in conjunction with it on the system. The matter was finally decided in favor of the Empire last week in the federal court at Dallas.

SANTA FE ACTIVE.

Thought Road Will Build Division Office at San Augustine.

San Augustine, June 16.—It is reported that the Santa Fe railroad is preparing to build a division office here. Considerable repair and clearing up work is under way here now by the Santa Fe.

ROAD GIVEN VERDICT

TERMINAL ASSOCIATION MUST SUBMIT CONTRACTS WITH OTHERS FOR APPROVAL.

St. Louis, June 16.—The Terminal railroad of St. Louis won a victory in the federal district court today when Circuit Judges Sanborn and Smith filed an interlocutory decree intervening the Supreme court decision in the outer suit brought by the government. Judge Hawk dissenting, the decree does not conform to that submitted by the government, which specifically prohibited the Terminal association from levying a bridge toll on traffic entering St. Louis.

The decree directs the Terminal association to submit to the court for final approval its contracts with its constituent roads. If these contracts are approved a final decree will be entered.

The supreme court decision directed the Terminal association to reframe its contracts so that all roads would be admitted to the terminal on equal terms, to give roads not members of the association the equal use of its facilities, to abolish the practice of billing goods from the east to East St. Louis and then rebilling them to St. Louis, and to abolish any "bridge arbitrary" on traffic originating within 100 miles that did not apply to like traffic originating outside the 100-mile zone.

I. C. C. CUTS GALVESTON RATES

Decision Is Result of Oklahoma Corporation Commission's Complaint.

Washington, June 16.—Material reductions in the freight rates on cotton bags and bagging, cotton ties and tie buckles from Galveston, Texas, to points in Oklahoma were ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. The complaint in the case was directed by the corporation commission of Oklahoma against practically all of the railroads constituting the Southwestern lines. The traffic is heavy. Existing rates were found to be unreasonable and discriminatory and the reductions were ordered to be made by August 15.

BUCKINGHAM GETS NEW JOB

Becomes Traveling Freight Agent for Katy With Headquarters Here.

R. P. Buckingham of Houston arrived in Waco yesterday to assume the duties of traveling freight agent, assisting W. C. Fowler, commercial agent of the M. K. & T. railroad. Mr. Buckingham was formerly soliciting freight agent for the M. K. & T., with headquarters in Houston. He is well acquainted in Central Texas. The office of commercial agent in this city was only established a few years ago, but the volume of business had increased so that an assistant became necessary to handle the duties of the department.

TWO CENT LAW UPHELD.

Supreme Court Declares West Virginia Two-cent Measure Valid.

Washington, June 16.—The West Virginia two-cent postage law was today upheld as valid by the supreme court, which affirmed the supreme court of appeals of West Virginia.

Justice Hughes said the question of interference with interstate commerce was decided in favor of the state for the reasons assigned in the Minnesota rate decision. No question of confiscation was presented in the West Virginia case.

DIVIDED ON STONE RATE.

Two Favor Old Tariff, But Mayfield Holds Different View.

Austin, June 16.—The railroad commission is divided on the question of the new rough stone rate. Chairman Alallen Mayfield and Commissioner Williams favor the old tariff, while Commissioner Earle Mayfield would have the recently adopted crushed stone tariff applied on rough stone. The new rough stone rate will likely be reduced to the figures in the old tariff, cancelled several years ago.

CHARTER AMENDMENT FILED.

S. A. U. & G. Gets Increase of $25,000 Today.

Austin, June 16.—The secretary of state today filed amendments to the charter of the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf railroad increasing its capital stock from $250,000 to $315,000, extending the line from Matilis, in San Patricio county, to Corpus Christi, a distance of about 25 miles.

The principal office of the railroad is transferred from Crystal City to San Antonio.

WOULD FILE NOTES.

Rock Island Asks for Approval for a $4,400,000 Issue.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 16.—The Missouri public service commission today received an application from the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad for the approval of a proposed issue of $4,400,000 gold notes for equipment purposes.

DIRECTORS MEET.

$30,000 in Bonds Sold to New York Syndicates in Announcement.

San Antonio, June 16.—At a meeting of the directors of the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf railroad, held here today, announcement was made that the $2,000,000 in bonds recently issued had been sold to a New York syndicate headed by W. A. Bradford.

COTTON MARKET

BUYING INCLINED TO BE SLUGISH, BUT PRICES AVIATE AT CLOSURE.

Rumor of Increases Today of Report Showing Slight Progress Since June 1.

New York, June 16.—The cotton market was not more than moderately active today, but prices advanced sharply, with new crop months making new high ground for the season and with the close steady at a net gain of 17 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 5 points in response to higher cables. There was some local selling at the start on reports of generally good weather over Sunday and indications for continued clear conditions, with higher temperatures in the belt for the next day or two at any rate.

Offerings, however, were very readily taken by a scattered demand which seemed to include considerable fresh buying for long account, as well as covering of shorts. Liverpool seemed to be selling near months here and there were moderate offerings from Memphis during the early trading, but the good weather reports seemed to be accompanied by no general southern selling movement, and as soon as the market began to advance some of the local sellers turned for cover.

The crop report of a prominent New Orleans authority indicating an increase of not over 2 per cent in acreage and rather spotted condition, seemed somewhat disappointing from a bearish standpoint, and there were rumors that a local authority would issue a report tomorrow indicating that the crop had made very little improvement since the compilation of the June Bureau.

These features doubtless contributed to the buying movement in connection with reports of a good domestic trade in cotton goods and the bulletin influence of Saturday's supply and distribution figures. Around 11:55 for October there was enough resistance to cause a reaction of 4 or 5 points during the middle of the afternoon but prices firms up again on renewed covering and buy support, with the active months selling 15 to 20 points net higher in the late trading and closing within 3 or 4 points of the best.

Private cables attributed the steadiness of Liverpool to a continued good spot demand.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, June 16.—Cotton opened at an advance, stood above the level of Saturday's close all day and finally closed principally at the highest at a net rise of 22 to 24 points. A good part of the upward movement came in the last half hour of trading when buying pressure from the long side uncovered stop loss orders among the shorts. New high levels for the present movement were made and much confusion was apparent among the bears.

The market had a firm undercurrent all day despite the favorable weather reports throughout the belt and excellent crop reports except a review of the crop situation by a local newspaper. The forecast of fair weather and the tendency of temperatures to warm up were generally accepted that the soft back recently received through cold weather would be quickly made up, but bullish spirit was afraid of unfavorable weather reports from the weather bureau tomorrow.

Accompanying this was buying on long account. Bears claimed that any unusual feature in the week's reports were discounted.

The market opened steady and there was a steady rise until in the early afternoon, when most active months stood about a dollar a bushel up. A quick spurt in the last half hour of business put the most active months 22 to 24 points over Saturday's close.

PLAN BOX DINNER IN THE OPEN AIR

WACO AD CLUB TO ENTERTAIN THE DELEGATION TO BALTIMORE.

TO BE AT COTTON PALACE PARK

Crawford and Hoffmann Return and Tell of the Success of the Trip.

W. V. Crawford and W. H. Hoffmann, two of the delegates from the Waco Ad club to the meeting of the National Advertising clubs held in Baltimore, returned yesterday afternoon. The remaining members of the Waco delegation are expected within a day or two.

Both Mr. Hoffmann and Mr. Crawford speak highly of the reception tendered the Texas delegation, and of the good feeling which seems to exist and the interest that is shown by eastern states in Texas. They state the Waco delegation was a factor in placing Waco before the assembled ad experts as a growing, progressive city and they expect returns of a financial nature as a result of the advertisement given Waco by the ad delegation.

They praise the Waco delegates for the manner and spirit in which they worked together to attain the end for which the trip was made, advertising Waco. The idea of boosting Texas, they say, was placed first by all the delegates from Texas, and the boosting of their separate towns came second.

Plans were partially completed for the entertainment of the delegates to the ad men's convention, after their return from Baltimore, at a meeting of the local club yesterday evening at the Adams hotel.

The Cotton Palace park was selected as the most suitable place for the nature of the program that has been planned. Friday night, June 28, had already been determined as the date.

East Waco Is Promised Street Car Service Soon

the other lines are ready.

Mr. Ross said yesterday that cars are being purchased for Waco of the type now in use on the North Fifth street line. These cars were pronounced by street railway experts at the recent Houston convention as the best city cars on the market. Those in operation here have been in service since the Cotton Palace last year and there has not been a single step accident on any of them in that length of time. The steps fold up and the doors close upon the starting of the cars and open after the cars have stopped. The cars themselves are also roomy and comfortable as well as sightly. With the additional cars which the company is putting in, the Waco service will be greatly improved.

DOWN TOWN CLUB TO MEET

Subscribers Are to Have a Gathering to Discuss the Organization.

Subscribers of the Down Town club will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the rooms of the Young Men's Business league instead of at the Chamber of Commerce rooms as was first announced. The charter and by-laws of the club will be adopted and the final details of organization completed.

W. C. Abel, chairman of the organization committee in issuing the call for the meeting, states the need of having as many subscribers as possible present.

A great deal of interest is centered in the proposed Down Town club, and it promises to be one of the most popular organizations of the city.

The club begins life with a good membership whose support insures success. Plans for club rooms, it is expected, will be announced shortly. The rooms are to be handsomely and luxuriously furnished, and the Down Town club promises to be one of the leading social organizations of the city.

G. K. BUSCH A VISITOR.

Comes to Look Over the Waco Properties of the Company.

G. H. Luedde, manager in Central Texas for the Busch interests, is entertaining G. Kingsbury Busch, manager for the Anheuser properties in St. Louis, who will be here the balance of the week.

Mr. Busch has been in the state six weeks. He came to Dallas during the Shriners' convention and spent some time in Dallas and from there visited South Texas, saw the water transpor-tation improvements which are being made, visited Houston at the time of the opening of the Rice and enjoyed a pleasant stay in several of the south Texas towns.

He reached Waco Sunday and yesterday spent the day with Mr. Luedde, sightseeing. He is well impressed with Waco.

JUDGE SLEEPER TO TALK.

Will Discuss Reminiscences of Waco
Men's Club.

Judge Wm. Sleeper will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the St. Paul's Men's club to be held at the parish house tonight. His subject will be "Early Reminiscences of Waco." Judge Sleeper is well qualified to talk upon this subject, because of his long residence in this city, and his address, it is expected, will reveal some interesting history of the city's growth. The club at each meeting has some informed speaker address its members on topics of general interest. The meetings have developed into interesting gatherings of the business men of the city, for the club is composed of men of all denominations.

PYTHIANS TO GO TO MARLIN.

Tom Connally to Be Guest of Honor
Tonight.

Thirty-five members of the local lodge, Knights of Pythias, will attend the meeting of the order at Marlin tonight, at which time degrees will be conferred. The guest of honor at the Marlin meeting will be Tom Connally, recently elected state grand chancellor of the order. Pat Neff of this city, also a state officer, will be in attendance. The Waco delegation will make the trip overland. A large part of these will go in the motor truck of the Coca-Cola company. Others go by private conveyance. The motor truck leaves at 8:30 o'clock this afternoon from Sixth and Webster streets. They expect to make the return trip to night.

Passion Week at the Mission.

The Evangelistic Mission will repeat the Passion Week sacred entertainment tonight at 8 o'clock. This is a new way that the mission workers have adopted for filling their large, comfortable hall and this plan works like a charm. Last Friday night the capacity of the hall was taxed, and tonight no doubt the mission hall will be overflowing with people who know good thing when they see it.

Supintendent E. Boyles and his co-workers are delighted with this most excellent way of drawing the people and of teaching them the great truths of the Gospel. The mission workers have filled up their hall with electric fans so that those who attend may be cool no matter how warm the weather may be. The hall is located at 6084 Austin avenue. The admission is free. Everybody welcome.

FOR DEEP WATER IN ALL STREAMS

CAPT. WILSON I. DAVENNY OF RIVERS AND HARBORS CON-GRESS HERE.

HOPES TO AROUSE ENTHUSIASM

Gives Interesting Data About Water
Transportation—Waco's Changes Are Good.

Captain Wilson I. Davenny, field secretary of the national rivers and harbors congress of Washington, D. C., arrived from Houston yesterday morning and upon invitation of Mayor Mackey will address the commission in the city hall at 10 o'clock this morning upon the subject of "Our National Waterways" and the work of the congress.

Captain Davenny is an old time newspaper man. He was for several years connected with the papers of Cleveland and Detroit and more recently a member of the staff of the New York Tribune, having been engaged for his service in the metropolis by the Late Whitelaw Reid, who, until his death, was American ambassador at London.

Colonel Davenny has recently completed a trip along the Atlantic seaboard, making addresses in Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia in behalf of the organization with which he is identified. Within the past two months he has visited the gulf coast cities from the Sabine to Brownsville and on three occasions addressed interested audiences in Houston. He attended the celebration at Galveston last week of the opening of the Intercoastal canal.

"The most pressing need of the country is the development of our natural water channels," was the statement made by Captain Davenny last evening at the New State House. "The high cost of living," continued Captain Davenny, "is a problem that touches the home and affects the allowance of every housewife. The transportation cost of the things we use and consume is inordinately high. The cheapest transportation and even if it did not involve great economy, the growth of the country in both population and production would command that our water channels be improved and utilized. The railroads are unable to handle the increasing traffic. The water routes for commerce must be developed to relieve the congestion that is reflected in car shortage with which merchants and manufacturers everywhere are familiar."

"We need the railroad, operated under national restraint; we need good highways, but the water channels must be developed as the only means of adequately increasing the demand for long transportation facilities."

"It is no time for the railroads to assume a 'dog in the manger' attitude. It is shortsighted and it is useless. The people are being aroused to an understanding of the situation and the time will come when they will no longer excuse delay in water channel development, nor tolerate obstruction to the maintenance of water lines of commerce."

"It should be understood that the slogan of the national rivers and harbors congress since its reorganization in 1905 has been 'not a project but a policy' and its objective has been an annual bill for river and harbor improvement carrying not less than $50,000,000. And certainly when the champions of good roads take seriously in congress at Washington of spending billions of dollars for the betterment of highways it should not be regarded as inopportune for the advocates of deeper, better water channels to urge the expenditure by the federal government of fifty millions a year in developing the waterways of the country under a systematic and comprehensive plan."

"Prior to the activity of the national rivers and harbors congress the appropriations for river and harbor development were intermittent and inadequate. They are now regular and more nearly approximate the needs of worthy projects."

"The opening of the intercoastal canal last week was an epoch marking event of direct and vast importance to the whole state of Texas. The section of the canal between Galveston and Corpus Christi is part of a channel that will ultimately bear its burden of commerce safely over a protected inland route from the delta of the Mississippi to the Mexican border. And it will to make neighbors, commercially, of the people on every tributary of the canal and the Mississippi, and the people on every tributary of the canal."

"You are hereby commanded, that by publication of this writ once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper regularly published in the County of McLennan, you give due notice to all persons interested in the said guardianship, to appear before said Court at the July term beginning 1913, commencing on the 27th day of July, 1913, and contest the account of the guardian, if they see proper to do so."

Witness my hand and seal of office, at Waco, Texas, this 9th day of June, 1913.

IN THE LOCAL COURTS

HABEAS CORPUS HEARING FOR
W. D. AND J. P. OWEN IN NINETEENTH.

Both Are Granted Bail—William
Lambdin Files Complaint as to Delinquents.

W. D. Owen and J. P. Owen, charged jointly with murder, were granted bail through a writ of habeas corpus sworn out before Judge Tom L. McCullough in the Nineteenth district court yesterday. Bond of the former was placed at $5,000 and of J. P. Owen at $2,500. Neither had secured bonds-men at a late hour last night.

The Owens are charged with killing three Mexicans, following a fight at a Katy construction camp near West in April. The men were arrested at McAlester, Okla., three weeks after the killing. Following a preliminary hearing at West, they were remanded without bail.

The killing attracted considerable attention. According to reports, J. P. Owen, employed as a time keeper at the railroad camp, was struck over the head with an iron weapon by one of the Mexican employees. The following night the Owens are said to have come into contact with a party of Mexicans. The shooting followed. Four Mexicans were wounded. One died instantly, and two others are said to have succumbed to their wounds later.

Since their arrest J. P. Owen has been ill and yesterday was still sick when he entered the court room.

Pogue Will Contest.

Further hearing of testimony in the contest of the will of the late David Pogue will be resumed in probate court this morning. Contest was filed by Fannie Pogue, wife of the deceased. She contests the will which goes to Pogue's sisters, his half of the community property. The case was taken up several days ago, and postponed from Saturday until Tuesday.

Delinquent Children.

Alleging that they were dependent, Wm. Lambdin of the United Charities, yesterday appeared before the Juvenile Court and recovered the custody of two children, aged 3 and 4 years, in a home where they would be suitably cared for. The allegation was that the children were forced to associate with immoral persons. Mr. Lambdin also withdrew the complaint filed Saturday against another child, charging dependency.

A complaint was filed yesterday by county attorney's office against "Specks," a boy, charging delinquency. The boy is alleged to have broken into a store.
